Explanation on: Color Healing and Water Energising

Energising Water by the means of Spectrochromotherapy, turning the waters that have been energised with a certain energy of colour, meaning vibrational energy, similar to solar energising.

Instead of having the seven spectrums of light energise the water as they pass the molecules, we have the choice of energising the water molecules with certain individual vibrations that are corresponding to the illnesses acquired by the body.

If you take the color blue and energise the water with blue, and you happen to have a fever, by drinking the water after energising it for 30 minutes, the fever will disappear.

Now, vitality builder, again with blue, under the heading of Vitality Builder, this is an agent that builds the life principles by stimulating the pineal gland on the diagram provided (area 1).

Other means of healing people with spectrochromotherapy is to energise the particular organ, or the number corresponding on the diagram with that corresponding colour e.g. violet, energised on the spleen, this is an agent that increases the functional activity of the spleen portrayed on area 6 on the diagram.

On the other hand, if you energise a glass of water for 30 minutes and drink it, it will automatically go to the spleen which is indicated as number 6 on the masculine diagram. So, therefore, as you can see, this little instrument that has been designed to help human beings, is quite versatile. Energise water and consume it, it will do the same job as energising by the spectrochromotherapy lights, on the particular organ to rectify the problem.

The special Roscolene filters have been scientifically designed with the spectrochromotherapy needs and requirements to heal ailments. They have been used by many specialists in the spectrochromotherapy field of healing, and are not just any type of colour. They are manufactured to create a vibration that is beneficial to people that are experiencing illnesses.

The main Roscolene filters, and scientific investigation, was performed by Dr Darius Dinshah, and has been verified by certain hospitals in the United States, as the modality to aid people with their illnesses.

I have simplified this method of healing by impregnating water, humans, animals, and crystals.

For instance, the crystal called Azeztulite, known to be one of the most powerful and mysterious crystals in the world, was specially energised with a formula that would aid humanity for the next millennium. The energy was so powerful that it imprinted a surface that was a towel with such energy that the energy was photographed several times without a crystal being laid on it. Now, that very crystal, if put into a lake or a river, or a cistern, would highly irradiate that water that would have 10,000 vibrational programs in it.

In this book there is a section on this crystal but one has to be very careful what one does with such great energy, in so far as not to be able to harm anyone.

This is the most subtle way of utilizing a healing method for a lot of illnesses that are being treated now by allopathic medicine. This is non-invasive, non-reactive, and non-polluting. This is as close to natural healing as one can get.
